YOUR CHOICES 2020 single by Chris Stapleton Starting OverSingle by Chris Stapleton from the album Starting OverReleasedAugust 28, 2020GenreCountryLength4:00Label Mercury Nashville Sound Songwriter(s) Chris Stapleton Mike Henderson Producer (s) Dave Cobb Chris Stapleton Chris Stapleton singles chronology Love Me Anyway (2019) Starting Over (2020) Audio videoStarting Over on YouTube Starting Over is a song by American singer-songwriter Chris Stapleton, released On August 28 , 2020 as the first single from his fourth studio album of the same name, released on November 13, 2020. The song features background voices from Stapleton's wife. [1] Background At the end of August 2020, Stapleton cleaned up all of its social media pages. On August 26, he posted a cryptic video and the next day saw the song, along with another song called Watch You Burn,[2] while announcing that his next album would be titled Starting Over. The song is Stapleton's first single since Millionaire in 2018, although during his break he collaborated with other artists, including Justin Timberlake, Pink and John Mayer. Stapleton played the track on a tour in late 2019. It was written by him and steelDrivers teammate Mike Henderson. Stapleton performed the song live for the first time at the 54th annual Country Music Association Awards. The composition Starting Over has a raw, stripped down and vulnerable theme.[3] Stapleton singing in search of new horizons, in perpetual motion. The love song fuses acoustic guitar chords and a percussive shake.[5] while drummer Derek Mixon delivers a brushed snare drum rhythm, which, according to Joseph Hudak of Rolling Stone, evokes Willie Nelson's version of City of New Orleans. The song is reminiscent Stapleton's rustic sound, aided by the Hammond B3 organ played by Benmont Tench. [2] Rolling Stone Critic Joseph Hudak pointed out the single, stating that it is for a new day and, as its title implies, a fresh start, while noting that Stapleton admits, the road is long and difficult, but with close people by our side [...] We'll get where we're going. [2] Billboard Billboard Lipshutz listed it as one of the most essential releases of the week, and, referring to the COVID-19 pandemic, said the song is designed for this moment, an expiration in the middle of an anxious year, with the gruff Stapleton voice providing hope for a better future. Excerpted from and oldid-998415411 With only a few acoustic guitar chords and a percussive shaker, Chris Stapleton unveiled a new song called Starting Over on Thursday (August 27). The first listen to what comes from an upcoming album is a sweet love song. The hitmaker Broken Halos wrote Starting Over with Mike Henderson, one of the founding members of the SteelDrivers. It's a familiar rhythm for those who were lucky enough to see him live last fall. Stapleton has made the song part of his setlist several times, revealing a more sensitive approach to vocalization, but the same storytelling force. The lyrics tell the story of a man urging his lover to come with him, because they have nothing left to lose. it doesn't matter to me / Wherever we are is where I want to be / All honey for once in our lives / Let's take our chances and roll the dice / I can be lucky penny / You can be my four-leaf clover/ Starting over, Stapleton sings on the title track of his new album, due to November 13.5 Burning Questions About Chris Stapleton's New Music and the Cryptic Video:On Monday, Stapleton shared the first tease of new music, offering fans on social media a cryptic video that included a dramatic, orchestra-rock song and a thick chorus of gospel singers. The words Starting Over were put together in his profile picture on Twitter and Instagram, leading fans to believe that an album of that name would be released on November 13. However, it is not certain that this is the name of his next studio album. This is his fourth and first since the double-volume release of From A Studio in 2017. Like his first three albums, this new song was co-produced by Stapleton and Dave Cobb.As a radio single, Starting Over is Stapleton's first since 2018, when Millionaire reached the Top 5 of the Billboard Country Airplay charts. To date, he has released only seven radio singles, including the single Broken Halos. His most famous song is a cover of Tennessee Whiskey which has never been released on country radio as a single, but has gained significant airplay in the years since, charting as recently as 2019.Check Out Our Top 10 Chris Stapleton SongsChris Stapleton, Starting Over LyricsWell the road as a welcome mat / At a better place than where we are / I have no plan / But I've had all this city that I can support / And I have friends on the coast / We could jump into the water and see what floats / We've been saving for a rainy day / Let's beat the storm and be on our way. Chorus: It doesn't matter to me / Wherever we are is where I want to be / Any honey for once in our lives / Let's take our chances and roll the dice / I can be your lucky penny / You can be my four-leaf clover / Start again. Maybe it's not an easy time / There are rivers to cross and hills to climb / And some days one could collapse / And some nights could be cold and dark / No one wins afraid to lose / And the hard roads are the ones worth choosing / One day we will look back and smile / And know that it was worth every mile. It doesn't matter to me / Wherever you are is where I want to be / Any honey for once in our lives / Let's take our chances and roll the dice / I can be your lucky penny / You can be my four-leaf clover / Start again.
